Need submission ideas? There are LOTS of possibilities!

- Research Articles and Critical Essays (3000-6000 words): Transform your course papers or assignments into journal articles. If you're unsure about how to do this, talk to Lisa or your course instructors.
- In the Field (2000 words max): Have you gone on a co-op? Maybe you already have an LIS related job? Write a short piece to tell us about your experience.
- For the Field (2000 words max): Are you involved in a student group doing interesting LIS related work? Did you do a project on a practical issue that would be of interest to LIS professionals? Share your knowledge and experiences!
- Interviews (750 words max): Have you interviewed an LIS professional for a course assignment? Is there someone in the field whose career path intrigues you? Interviews are a great way to make professional connections and learn about different areas within LIS.
- Reviews (750 words max): Have you read a new LIS related book for a class? Write a short review! The FIMS Graduate Library has all kinds of new materials (books, games, makerspace materials etc.) that can be reviewed. Contact Lisa for a list of interesting new titles.
